Becoming a Strengths-Based Leader

As a leader it is important to know what skills & abilities you possess, what you bring to the table, so you can offer your organization your best. Every leader possesses her or his own unique set of strengths. According to the Gallup Organization, "We spend too much time focusing on our weaknesses, trying to make them stronger rather than recognizing our strengths." Knowing our strengths and offering them to our colleagues, teams and departments brings us greater satisfaction and engagement in our work. Why? Because strengths are something we are really good at! It's appealing, and even fun, to work with what we do well.

Participants in this workshop will take the Clifton StrengthsFinder 2.0 inventory to learn their five strongest strengths. By focusing on your strengths you increase your productivity and affinity for your work.

By attending this half-day session, you will:

- ❖ Understand the role of strengths-based leadership in a satisfying career
- ❖ Increase awareness of who you are as a leader through your strengths
- ❖ Learn how to maximize your strengths to increase your effectiveness.
